We've Moved!

The Red River Lab has moved! You'll find us on the third floor of the University Center building, inside the John F. Moss Library in room 305. JFM Library has been an integral partner to the RRILH since its inception, and now our close proximity offers us the chance to provide more benefits to our student, faculty, and staff visitors.

- Full catalog of media items available for checkout through the JFM media guides.
- Reservations to use the lab PCs, MACs, and other internal equipment and resources available via the library's reservation system.
- Expanded hours of availability in concert with JFM Library hours.
CFP: 3rd Annual Festival of Creative Works

The Red River Innovation Lab for the Humanities is announcing its Call for Projects for the 3rd Annual Festival of Creative Works.

We invite any member of the campus community - students, faculty, staff, and administration - to submit projects to be featured in the festival. Submissions should be

- formatted for a virtual, digital festival; and
- Multimodal (projects that combine at least two of the following: text, image, sound, video, animation) or digital (projects created using computer/mobile applications or tools).

Submissions need not be created using RRILH resources nor do the projects have to be tied to a particular course or University program.

This year’s festival will run virtually in accordance with COVID-19 guidance. More details will be provided in the forthcoming weeks.

Submission deadline: Friday, April 9, 2021
Festival date: Thursday, April 22, 2021

Digital Archiving Tool Now Available

Thanks to the generous support of the College of Arts, Sciences and Education, the RRILH now has the ability to build and publish digital archives! Using the Omeka platform, the RRILH is developing digital archive spaces for A&M-Texarkana initiatives such as the Program for Learning and Community Engagement (PLACE).

RRILH has the ability to support a select number of undergraduate and graduate students as well as faculty who are interested in developing digital archives of their own. If you or someone you know might be interested in applying for one of our digital archive site licenses, contact RRILH Director, Dr. Corrine Hinton at chinton@tamut.edu.
